

GOLA HUNDUN

Solo Show: 7.6 Billion and Still Growing

ARTIST STATEMENT

7.6 Billion and still growing - the number of human beings that inhabit the Earth today.

This body of work is a consideration of the impact Homo Sapiens have on the environment throughout time. From the agricultural revolution to colonisation and to globalisation, I track an environmental journey through various stages of human history. I aim to take the viewer on a visual journey of the consequence of the expansion and impact of humans, a process that started when they first left their mother land, Africa, during the Paleolithic era and hasn't stopped.

ABOUT THE ARTIST

Gola Hundun was born in Cesena, Italy. His first introduction into the art world began with classical art training at Ravenna's High School of Arts in Italy. In 2010 Gola did an art residency semester in Quebec, Canada, where he began his artistic career on global scale. From the completion of his residency to-date, Gola travels the world exhibiting in group and solo shows, taking part in festivals, producing art installations and creating murals and street art.
